

Old Church Hospital A&E Department

This was a fast-track project, designed as it was being built, Havering Hospital Trust needed to expand and improve its A&E facilities. We were chosen from the Trust's approved list and worked in partnership with the main contractor; W A Hills, and consultant; The Mackechnie Jarvis & Graham Partnership. The project was very convenient for us, being some 200 Yards from our office, and worth £120k. The job involved new ventilation systems, air conditioning, alterations to the heating and hot water services, along with medical gas installation. The works were successfully completed within the 16 week period, whilst the department remained open. The client is very pleased with the results, which could not have been achieved without a team effort from all involved on the project.
