Updated: 05/01/2021

“Working closely with clients, suppliers and workforce, we are doing all we can to ensure it’s ‘Business as Usual but with a Tweak’

To ensure service continuity during this unprecedented coronavirus (COVID-19) crisis, we would like to assure you that we are committed to protecting our staff and clients alike.

We have continued to introduce measures as this pandemic has evolved to mitigate the spread of COVID-19. Certain members of staff will continue to work from our Romford based office commuting by car with onsite parking, other staff members are working from home with full access to our office server, thus enabling crucial social distancing. Site attendance will be by appointment with Safe site Operational Procedures in place.

For your reassurance we will be monitoring our engineers COVID-19 symptom status on a regular basis requiring them to report any changes in their health immediately and reporting if they suspect they or those around them may be infected. All staff members and specialist’s teams have been given strict safe operational instructions on protecting themselves and those around them from infection.

Working for local government bodies and NHS Trusts we aim to keep these institutions online and provide emergency services where needed. With the ever-evolving public health England and The BESA guidelines being monitored please be assured ‘of our closest attention at all times.

Our staff, suppliers and client’s health and safety being of paramount concern, our teams will contact you immediately should any issues need to be addressed.

Yours sincerely
